BOUQUETS FOR CENTRAL BANK

Valley's Newest Financial Institution Is Opened — Officers Receive Many Calls from Friends, Both New and Old

With many flowers and much congratulation and an up-to-expectations first day's business, the new Central bank passed through its initiation yesterday, and is now one of the established financial institutions of the capital of Arizona. In an interview with a Republican reporter, President P. K. Lewis of the new bank said last evening:

"We are delighted with the reception we have had from the people of Phoenix. Banks and other business institutions of Phoenix sent us enough flowers to form a young conservatory, and we put them all in our front windows. People called, some to open accounts and many just to say 'Hello.' Needless to say, this demonstration of interest pleased and encouraged us very much.

"While I am not at liberty to make public all the facts concerning our first day's business, I will say that the number of moderate-sized accounts that were opened with us yesterday certainly surprised me. And on the whole, we are very well satisfied with our showing."

"That the new bank will begin soon to occupy a strong position in the financial life of the community is the opinion of its backers. A sane, conservative, but progressive policy, will be adhered to, and the institution will be run on the principle that its growth depends on the growth of the community, and that the best way to improve the bank is to improve and develop its surroundings.

The payroll question was turned inside out all day and at one time turned on a detail in which Mr. Keefe, said he felt a deep personal interest, namely the pay received by firemen on oil burning locomotives. It appeared that in October, 1913, A. Richardson, a fireman on Keefe's road, earned $289.

"The rate now paid of $3.75 a day is unreasonable when it is compared with the $4.40 received by the engineer of

"Y" TO CELEBRATE MOODY'S BIRTHDAY

Honoring the memory of Dwight L. Moody, the celebrated evangelist, the Y. M. C. A. will celebrate the anniversary of his birth tomorrow evening with an appropriate program. Interesting events in the life of Moody will be shown by stereopticon slides, and Rev. H. M. Campbell and Walter Hill of this city, both of whom were personally acquainted with the great Christian worker, will give reminiscences of his life.

Moody was born in Northfield, Mass., February 5, 1827. Converted in Boston in 1854, he gave up his position as a shoe clerk a short time later, to devote his entire time to aggressive Christian work. In 1870 he met Ira D. Sankey, the famous singer and author of many church and Sunday school hymns. Together the evangelist and singer traveled throughout the country, and their names became household words in the United States. Moody founded the Northfield seminary at Northfield, Mass., the Mt. Hermon school for boys, and the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. He died December 22, 1899, at Northfield, where he is buried.

The meeting tomorrow evening, which is set for 7:45 in the Y lobby, is open to all men and women of Phoenix.

the same oil burner, compared to whose work that of the fireman is a snap" said Mr. Keefe.

"It was the result of the arbitration of 1910 and at the end of the year most of the roads, as they were privileged, declined to renew the schedule. Some roads, including our own, still pay the rate but had expected to seek an adjustment at the present arbitration. However, it cannot be done, as the arbitration includes only the demands of the men; none of the adjustments to the roads."

RAINBOW TROUT FROM SKULL VALLEY HATCHERY

Crystal Springs Trout Company Starts Work of Stocking Pools Will Supply Hotels

Rainbow trout, hatched and raised in Yavapai county, will probably be on the hills of Yuma in a number of the hotels of the state by the middle of August. This announcement has been made following the first shipment of 200,000 eggs and 50,000 frya from Utah to the new hatchery of the Crystal Springs trout company at Skull valley.

The plant which was constructed for the propagation of mountain trout has just been completed and the work of planting the spawn and starting the large hatchery was begun last week. The company which is backed by Cattell brothers, who already operate a successful hatchery at Murray, Utah, will raise fish in the clear mountain spring water and ship them to the hotels and railroad eating houses as well as the markets of Arizona. Already it is understood, arrangements have been made to supply the Adams hotel at Tucson, and the Fred Harvey houses on the Santa Fe with trout.

The board of directors of the company is composed of W. L. Roberts, S. A. Cottrell, R. L. Jones and C. H. Totten.

HANNA LEAVES

the broadening views and plans of the service, and I am getting to like the men with whom I have been working immensely."

Mr. Hanna has been in all the various departments of reclamation work. In Idaho, he built the entire Boise distributing system, hooking it up with a splendid storage project. As in many other cases, the government is not letting this engineer get entirely free from the service. He will be retained on a per diem, to do expert work in the arbitration department. It is in this branch that Hanna has proven so successful. As a member of the survey board and of other boards, he has had a lot of this sort of work to do. Only last night, he went to Yuma to bring the Indians and the water users into harmony over some little dispute over water rights.

In Iowa, there is no need of irrigation, but there is a real problem of drainage. Being a drainage expert, then, Mr. Hanna will continue in private practice as a consulting engineer.

His active connection with the service will be formally terminated on March 1. His successor has not yet been selected.

AMUSEMENTS

Chas. Chaplin at the Lion

There is a comedy at the Lion theater today, that is full of laughs from beginning to end. It is called "Gentlemen of Nerves" and is a Keystone release in which the principal fun makers are Chas. Chaplin, Mabel Normand, Chester Conklin and Ambrose. The action is taken at an auto race and contains many laughable stunts. "The Beggar Child" with a cast consisting of Ed Coxen, Winifred Greenwood, Charlotte Burton, George Field and others is a splendid picture and the interiors and garden scenes are full of charm. Margarita Fischer and Harry Pollard are seen to good advantage in the one reel comedy entitled "Cupid and a Dress Coat," which is a pleasing film in every way. Provided washouts do not prevent, "Zudora" in "The Mystery of

At the Lamara

Charlie Chaplin in "His Prehistoric Past," a two-reel Keystone is the offering for today and Friday. Chaplin as Wecklein, the tramp, falls asleep on a park bench and presently is dreaming of the days of his prehistoric past. He finds himself in an ancient kingdom, flirting with one of the water carrying maidens of the king. Presently he is set upon by Cleo, the king's fool. Then the king comes and the fighting becomes hilariously funny. In the end Wecklein and the king become great friends, but the king's jealousy of Wecklein's attention to his favorite makes trouble. Wecklein throws the king over the cliff, and reigns as king himself. The old king, rescued by Cleo, returns and beats Wecklein over the head. He wakes to find a policeman clubbing him and telling him to "move on."

African Pictures at Empress

Sport and Travel in Central Africa, a film that will appeal especially to all lovers of travel, will be the feature at the Empress for the next few days. This picture, which is a five-reel Pathé production is a very instructive one, and will undoubtedly draw a large attendance.

"THE BARRIER" IS COLUMBIA OFFERING

Last night was school's night at the Columbia and the theater beautiful had some difficulty taking care of all who wanted to see the final performance of "The Deserters." Gov. Hunt and the members of the Arizona upper and lower house were there with their friends to enjoy the hospitality of Mr. Redmond and his company.

Tonight the bill changes and the members of the organization will be seen in Rex Beach's stage story of the Klondike, "The Barrier." The Barrier, which is a play of the type of Pierre of the Plains, has to deal with the Canadian mounted police, miners, prospectors, and the gold country of Alaska. It is a strong yarn story, and will not only give Mr. Karns another chance to duplicate his success in Pierre, but the entire cast will be seen to advantage. The Barrier will be the first production done of the big snow country and much time has been expended to bring about the local color of the land of the frozen north.

Mary Pickford at The Arizona
"Behind the Scenes" with America's sweetheart Miss Pickford, will be the offering tonight for the last time. In this production Miss Pickford is at her best, she makes deep appeal to the heart. With full realization of the unadvised that prompts comparison it is safe to say that nothing in which Miss Pickford has appeared in since "Caprice" quite so strongly sways the emotions. "Behind the Scenes" will be the offering tonight for the last time.

MOST IMPORTANT CASES IN FED-O. B. TROUBLE STILL UNDECIDED

Three of the most interesting and most important cases in the trouble between the Feds and organized baseball are those of Hal Chase, Armando Marsans and George (Chief) Johnson. It happens that each one of those players was taken or came from organized baseball while the playing season was under way and each was taken into court. In none of them has a final decision been yet made.
